Dr. Jill Nichols is a pediatrician at the Austin Diagnostic Clinic in Austin, Texas, and a member of AMS’ Founder Donna Bryant Goertz’s very first AMS group of students in 1967. She spent her pre-school and early elementary years at the original AMS locations at St. Edwards University and Avenue H, before moving away to the Washington, DC area and then overseas for the remainder of her primary and secondary education. Jill returned to the States to attend Harvard for her undergraduate studies, and then earned her MD from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. She did a residency at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore before embarking on her pediatrics practice, which eventually brought her back to Austin in 1996. Jill’s children, Shannon, Evan and Owen Plunkett, all attended AMS.
