

TTC Alumni Notes

July, 2018

Amy Rothschild, TTC '11, an upstander, child advocate, and kindergarten teacher at Capitol Hill Day School, is making a difference every day. She joined the excellent organizers from Women's March and CPD Actions. On Facebook, she wrote: "This is about stepping into our power. Not power over but power with and power to. Energized and inspired by the 600 women I marched, stood, sat, sang, and was arrested with yesterday to keep lawmakers' focus on ending family detention."

Check out her articles in The Atlantic.

Last summer three TTC alums found themselves in the same backyard party in Norfolk, CT.

Kenneth Rochester, TTC '06, met with, President of Morehouse College David Thomas and his wife, Willetta Lewis, to share his path to teaching. It began with an experience at Summerbridge Hopkins and Shady Hill's TTC. This year, he completed his eighth year at Friends Academy, an independent school in Atlanta, GA.

Liza Cowan, TTC '14 will lead a seminar at Shady Hill School's first Summer Institute for Humanities, co-founded and led by Dr. Kim Parker and Desiree Ivey.
