Proctor Academy is an independent, coeducational boarding and day school for grades 9-12 located in the foothills of the White Mountains in central New Hampshire. The campus encompasses 2,500 acres of woodlands, pastures, three ponds, a privately owned ski area, and more than 45 buildings on the campus proper. Total school enrollment is 372 students comprised of roughly 52% males and 48% females, with boarding students comprising 75% of the total student body. During the 2019-2020 admissions cycle, 550 students applied, 220 were accepted, and 115 matriculated. There are 96 seniors in the Class of 2020 including 5 post-graduates. Students hail from 26 states and 14 foreign countries. Approximately 37% of the student body receives financial aid awards averaging $28,700 per student. The faculty consists of 95 full-time teachers and administrators, providing a 5:1 student to teacher ratio on campus. The average experience of the faculty is sixteen years, with more than 67% holding advanced degrees.

Over the past decade, 80% of Proctor Academy students who attended the school for three or more years participated in a term-long off campus program, ensuring Proctor graduates receive a global education. A third of the student body enrolls in integrated academic support through Proctor's Learning Skills program each year. This commitment to celebrating diverse learning styles in every classroom enhances the educational experience of all students throughout Proctor’s 130+ academic courses.

In addition to its remarkable breadth of academic offerings, Proctor offers 30 art electives, 43 afternoon activity/athletic offerings, five off campus programs, a robust residential life and wellness curriculum, daily meetings in faculty advisories, community service opportunities, and an institutional commitment to Proctor’s environmental stewardship. Proctor’s has a longstanding belief that the most effective educational model operates at the intersection of experiential, hands-on learning and authentic faculty/student relationships within a nurturing community.

SIGNATURE PROGRAMS

Learning Skills: Core to Proctor’s educational model since the 1950s, Proctor’s Learning Skills program offers integrated academic support to a third of the student body each year. Learning Skills empowers students to become strategic and resilient lifelong learners who are confident self-advocates. Proctor’s approach develops positive working relationships with students, applies comprehensive academic coaching methods, and direct instruction of executive functioning skills. It does not, however, emphasize the remediation of weaknesses. Instead, each student gains greater self-knowledge as an effective learner, capitalizing on personal strengths to achieve academic success in challenging coursework. The goal for each student is academic independence, self-awareness, and confidence gained through real-world success.

Ocean Classroom: Offered during the fall trimester, Ocean Classroom is an immersive living and learning experience. Twenty-two Proctor students are challenged academically, socially, and physically, as they become working crew members for nine weeks aboard the World Ocean School’s 130’ LOA, traditional, gaffrigged Schooner Roseway. Ocean Classroom students receive 1 English credit, 1 Social Science credit, 1 Mathematics credit, 1 Science credit, and a Skills credit.

Mountain Classroom: Since 1972, Mountain Classroom has served as the cornerstone of Proctor’s commitment to experiential learning. During the winter or spring trimester, ten students and two instructors embark on a ten week exploration of the American West during which they combine outdoor education and academic inquiry in a place-based curriculum examining the intricate relationship between nature and culture. Students receive 1 English credit, 1 Science credit, 2 Social Science credits, and a Group Dynamics Skills credit.

Spanish Abroad: Since 1974, Proctor en Segovia has been offered as a language immersion term during the fall, winter, and spring trimesters. Students live with a Spanish host family, study literature and history, and take excursions throughout Spain and Europe. Participants in the Proctor one-trimester overseas program receive 3 Language credits, 1 English credit, 1 Social Science credit, and a Group Dynamics Skills credit.

European Art Classroom: An art immersion program based in Aix-en-Provence, France during the winter or spring trimesters, eight students and two faculty members live in community and travel extensively throughout Europe as they gain an appreciation for language, art, and literature. Participants learn extensive art skills and technique while receiving 1 English credit, 1 Social Science credit, 1 Language credit, 2 Art credits, and a Skills credit.

Costa Rica Program: Proctor has an active relationship with The Cloud Forest School in Monteverde, Costa Rica. Available to 10th graders, this one-trimester program allows students to live with a Costa Rican host family, immerse themselves in Costa Rican culture, and continue their Proctor courses through the Cloud Forest School. In most cases, students receive 1 English credit, 1 Science credit, 1 Social Science credit, 1 Language credit and 1 Math credit.

Summer Service Learning Program:Since 2012, these trips, led by Proctor faculty members, are a focused, rich opportunity for students to in engage in cultural immersion and the principles of community building in China, Guatemala, Thailand, and the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota. While most trips are two weeks long, in 2016, Proctor launched its first month-long program in Yunnan China during which students had the opportunity to stay with host families and earn a year’s worth of Language credits.

Community Service: Community Service is a vital part of the culture at Proctor. The program is entirely voluntary and involves roughly 60% of all students in any given trimester. Popular opportunities include: Campus tours for prospective students (Green Key), Proctor Environmental Action (PEA), Student Leadership, Child Care Center volunteer, organic gardening, and being a Big Brother or Big Sister at our local elementary school.

Academic Recognition
Honor Roll: Consists of students whose academic average is 85 or above.
Head’s List: Consists of students whose academic average is 90 or above.
Effort Honor Roll: Identifies students who receive Honors effort grades in at least 60% of their academic/extracurricular activity responsibilities. Effort grades are rewarded for all Level I & Level II courses, community service, dormitory citizenship and afternoon activities.

Transcript Notes
• Each trimester of a course is considered a unit in itself, is individually listed on the transcript, and must be individually passed in order for the student to receive credit.
• Students completing summer coursework receive academic credit as noted by “Pass” on the transcript.
• Academic summer courses completed through an outside program will have a final grade listed, which is not calculated into Proctor Academy GPA.

Final Fall Trimester grades are available after December 2, 2019.

Profile of a Proctor Graduate:
Proctor graduates are collaborative, ethical individuals, ready to contribute productively to their communities. Our diverse programs and experiential approach to education develop creative, resilient, and knowledgeable problem solvers who take responsibility for their own learning.
