About the Workshop
This workshop is designed for high school students interested in gaining athletic training skills. Participating students will learn about current concepts in sports medicine from certified athletic trainers, physical therapists, physicians and other specialists.

Each day, students will engage in lectures, demonstrations and laboratory sessions with an emphasis on prevention, recognition and treatment of athletic injuries. Lab sessions will focus on taping practice with individual instruction from certified athletic trainers.

Each participant will receive a T-shirt and camp notebook, which includes a manual designed for easy reference as student aides support their schools’ athletic programs. Practical drawings, charts and exercise handouts are also included.

All workshop taping supplies will be furnished on site.

Further instructions will be mailed with receipt of registration.
