The safety of our students and staff is our top priority, and on days of inclement weather snow closing decisions are made with this concern in mind. On days that the Academy stays open, please take into account your own family’s logistical circumstances: you should feel comfortable keeping your student home if hazardous commuting conditions so warrant, and we will honor that absence. BU Academy will do everything possible to announce a snow closure by 6:00AM. The primary channels for communicating a snow closure are email and the BUA website.

Boston University and BU Academy closings and delayed openings will be listed on the following radio and television stations:

WBZ 1030 AM        WBZ-TV Chan. 4        WCVB-TV Chan. 5
WHDH-TV Chan. 7    WFXT-TV Chan. 25

If the University closes, the Academy will close also. To check on the University status, you can also call 617-353-SNOW (353-7669).

To check on the Academy status if the University stays open, students should first check their email for a message sent to the BUA all-school listserv, or visit the BU Academy homepage. The Academy will also post on 7News (both channels 7 and 56) and WRKO 680AM.

If you are in doubt about our status, it is safer to delay a student’s departure until confirming that we are open, rather than having the student leave at the normal hour without knowing our decision yet. Lateness for this reason is excused.

If the Academy closes, but the University remains open (except during the University break) when possible, the Academy building will be open from 8AM-1PM for students taking University courses. If the Academy building cannot remain open, a reminder will be sent to students and parents as early as possible instructing them to bring home any books and materials they will need in preparation for the closing.
