Abstract paintings are evocative and open to personal interpretation. As an artist, this is one of the motivating reasons that I paint abstractly. I’m inspired by both the process of creating abstract paintings and by viewing the finished artwork.

To take it one step further, it’s inspiring to see how the viewer can shift their state-of-mind when they view the paintings... feelings of peace and calmness, energy and boldness or different feelings all together. Having artwork that empowers you, in your physical space, can help lead to personal transformation.
