APART FROM ACADEMICS
This program provides an extraordinary opportunity for students to benefit linguistically and to learn about Spanish history and culture in a natural way. It also provides them with a unique opportunity to learn about themselves and each other.

The students are called upon to cooperate as a group at times rather than as individuals. They must often bond together for the common good, and they inevitably rise to the occasion. The students have an unprecedented social opportunity, one in which they experience more independence than ever before. They test and learn their limits, at all times exercising good judgment and a keen understanding of the responsibility bestowed upon them. They are expected to adhere to certain guidelines which are drawn for the safety and well-being of everyone. These guidelines have an origin based on the experience and knowledge of the teachers, as well as the teachings and expectations of the parents.
