Jemicy School is an accredited, co-educational, college preparatory, independent day school for students in grades one through twelve. Founded in 1973, Jemicy was one of the nation’s first day schools for talented students with language-based learning differences and was the first school in the country to be accredited by the International Dyslexia Association.

The Jemicy School Credo
The Credo articulates Jemicy School’s commitment to maintaining a sense of community and mutual respect among students, parents, faculty, and staff. We expect all to be partners in establishing and maintaining an atmosphere where every individual is valued and respected.
